

What a compliment ...

The Chief Commercial Officer of Leo, Chris Keeping, pictured left, commended the Rector, Dr Tjama Tjivikua, on the appearance of the Polytechnic campus when he visited the Senate Chambers this week. Keeping, accompanied by three lovely ladies from the company's marketing department, on his first visit to the campus, said he was highly impressed with the neatness of the campus.

"This must be one of the neatest campuses in Africa that I have ever seen, and I know what I'm talking about because I've been all over Africa," the experienced executive said. He added that the students were also some of the most friendly he had ever met.
